4. General information about the academy

4.1 History

The beginnings of The Jan Kochanowski Świętokrzyska Academy in Kielce date back to the year 1969, when the already-existing Teachers' School was transformed into the Higher Teacher Training School (Wyższa Szkoła Nauczycielska – WSN) by the Prime Minister's Resolution of June 19, 1969, with the aim of educating the teaching staff for the province of Kielce. At that time, three faculties were opened: the Faculty of Humanities, including Polish Studies combined with History and Russian studies; the Faculty of Mathematics and Natural Sciences, offering education in the fields of Mathematics combined with Physics, and Geography combined with Civic Education; as well as the Faculty of Pedagogy offering education in the fields of Early School Education combined with Physical Education, and Early School Education with Music Education.

In 1973, the Higher Teacher Training School was transformed into the Higher School of Teacher Education (Wyższa Szkoła Pedagogiczna) (Dz. U. [Polish Journal of Laws] No. 39, Item 232 of October 3, 1973), which has been offering Master's programmes to its students since the academic year 1973/1974. In 1979, the School was named Jan Kochanowski. In 1980, the first postgraduate courses were offered.

On November 15, 1981, within the Faculty of Pedagogy, a Local Faculty based in Piotrków Trybunalski was established (Official Journal of Science, Higher Education and Technology Minister, No. 10, Item 39, of November 15, 1981), and in 1997, it was transformed into a Branch of the Jan Kochanowski Higher School of Teacher Education in Kielce, based in Piotrków Trybunalski (Letter of the National Education Ministry, No. DNS-1-0141-ek-93/97, of June 11, 1997). In the year 2000, at the Local Branch, following the approval of the National Education Studies and History.

Following the National Education Minister's Resolution of September 20, 1992, in the academic year 1992/1993, the Faculty of Management and Administration was opened.

On September 1, 2000, the School was renamed to The Jan Kochanowski Świętokrzyska Academy in Kielce.

In accordance with the National Education Ministry's Resolution of September 29, 2005, in the academic year 2005/2006, the Faculty of Health Sciences was established.

4.2 The present

At present (as at October 31, 2005), The Jan Kochanowski Świętokrzyska Academy employs 1075 university teachers, including 391 professors and doctors habilitated. The student population numbers about twenty-seven thousand, including over twenty thousand in Kielce. The Jan Kochanowski Świętokrzyska Academy comprises seven Faculties, including five at the parent institution in Kielce, namely the Faculty of Humanities, the Faculty of Mathematics and Natural Sciences, the Faculty of Pedagogy and Arts, the Faculty of Health Sciences as well as the Faculty of Management and Administration, and two Faculties in Piotrków Trybunalski, which are: are the Faculty of Language Studies and History, and the Faculty of Social Sciences.

The Academy now offers courses in twenty-three fields of study, and in over sixty specialisation areas, with Master's degrees being awarded in seventeen fields of study. Until the present day, sixteen of these have received the approval of the State Accreditation Committee.

7. Libraries

The Main Library of the Jan Kochanowski Świętokrzyska Academy is one of the most rapidly developing units of the Academy. At present, its collections amount to over four hundred thousand volumes and in this respect it is the greatest library in the region. The Library holds over thirty thousand of annual sets of Polish and foreign journals and almost eight thousand items of special collection. The Library's resources are entered into the computer database, which at present contains over two hundred thousand records. The number of registered users exceeds over eight thousand, and continues to grow. The Lending Department and all reading-rooms are computerised and equipped with access to the Internet. New electronic information databases and foreign journals databases have been purchased, and made accessible from the Academy computer network. Readers have on-line access to scientific journals subscribed by the Main Library and other units of the Academy.

Nowadays the organisational structure of the Main Library comprises 10 reading-rooms: three faculty reading-rooms, two Institute reading-rooms, the Library of the Department of Modern Languages, and four in the Main Library – with a total of 356 places.
